About PREA

The Pennsylvania Rural Electric Association (PREA) is the service organization that represents the interests of 14 electric cooperatives in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Today, these not-for-profit organizations serve more than 238,000 homes, businesses and industries, representing more than 600,000 consumers.

As the economic drivers in their service areas, electric cooperatives provide the services that allow businesses and industries to prosper and grow, improving the quality of life for consumer-members.

In support of its member cooperatives, PREA performs a variety of functions, from legislative advocacy to training and education. PREA also provides legal assistance, communications support, and a number of member events and programs. The association works in conjunction with Allegheny Electric Cooperative, Inc. (Allegheny), a generation and transmission organization that supplies wholesale power to these 14 member systems.

PREA and Allegheny, through the combination of support services and competitively priced power, work to ensure the success of cooperatives in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

PREA Associate Member Program

PREA & You: Partnering for Success

The PREA Associate Member Program is about partnership. Associate Members play a key role in the success of electric cooperative organizations in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. By providing professional expertise in vital business and industry matters, Associate Members help cooperatives more effectively serve their membership. In today's competitive environment, that partnership is more important than ever.

PREA's Associate Member Program is designed to help you make the most of that partnership. The membership benefits are structured to provide you with ease of access to cooperative activities – and cooperative decisionmakers – so you can focus on forging bonds and building relationships.

For your convenience, the PREA Associate Member Program has several levels of participation to suit your needs. Each level has benefits geared toward your level of engagement, whether you attend our various events or want to show your support for cooperative activities in other ways. Please consult the chart below in choosing a membership level. We look forward to partnering with you.
